CITY APPROVES LEVY MEASURE

VOTERS WILL GET MEASURE IN NOVEMBER

Employees Present Petitions With 3,000 Names
CAN OBTAIN MONEY IN 1924
Effective for One Year Only if Citizens Approve

Legislation was passed by the city commissioners Monday night placing the three mill levy question on the ballot for acceptance or rejection by the voters at the November election.

Under the provisions of the ordinance, the levy will be effective for only one year, being assessed, if voted for, against all taxable property in Lima for 1923 regardless of all other taxes assessed against the property.

Passage of the ordinance putting the three mill levy on November ballot came as the result of petitions presented by the firemen and policemen signed by 3,248 qualified voters of the city. The committee working for the levy proposition was required to have only 2,985 names so the call on the city commissioners to submit the question was sufficient, they declared, to warrant them in acting Monday night. Four petitions were not among those presented Monday night and Fire Chief John Mack, in charge of circulating the petitions, said the total number of signatures would undoubtedly reach 3,500.

Should the voters accept the levy, it will net the city about $150,000 officials at city hall estimate. As the ordinance passed Monday night provides that it can be levied on the 1923 duplicate, which is made up in December of this year, it will require additional bookkeeping after November 6, if the proposition passes, city officials said.

In the event that the levy does pass and is attached to the 1923 duplicate the city will begin receiving money in the first settlement of 1924, officials said. During the time the ordinance was up for passage Commissioner Robinson asked if it was for one year or five and City Solicitor Landis replied that it was for 1923 only as the city, under the law, was limited to putting this levy on the 1923 tax year. As the legislation had to be enacted before September 20, this year, the ordinance was put thru Monday night and Mayor Harold Cunningham announced that the special meeting called for next Thursday night to act on the question would, therefore, be cancelled.

Acceptance of the three mill levy by voters at the November election and placing it on the 1923 duplicate will give the city a levy of four mills on the 1923 duplicate as the one mill levy passed in 1918 and first attached to the 1919 duplicate expires with the 1923 duplicate. This means, officials said, that the city in 1924 would get all the income from the 1918 one mill levy and the 1923, three mill levy which is estimated to be about $200,000 over and above income from all other sources.

Declaring his family is the object of a bombardment of fruit and verbal insults every time they pass the home of Mary Simonauksis, Paul Davis Tuesday swore out an affidavit against the woman.

Davis declares that the Simonauksis woman accused he and his family of tipping off police that he was boot-legging and that every time they pass her house they are showered with tomatoes, other fruit and insults.

STREET DIGGING BREAKS CABLES

Boulevard Light Wires Cut by Service Companies

One-third of the circuits which furnish electricity for the city's boulevard lighting system are out of commission because public service corporations have carelessly cut the cables carrying the current. City Manager C. A. Bingham asserted Tuesday. This is the reason, he said, that boulevard lights in several sections of the city are out of commission.

Bingham says that the city is powerless to prosecute the public service corporations for this destruction of the cables because he says the Ohio Power Co. the Lima Gas Co. and the Lima City Street Railway Co. claim they have franchise contracts to operate on the streets and these contracts give them the necessary permission to dig up the streets without first getting a permit from the city.

He said that the telephone company, on the other hand has "been just fine about it. Before cutting into the streets the company files a blue print and gets a permit," he said.

Bingham declares that while most of the damage has been done by the three public service corporations named as claiming the right to dig the streets without a permit, some of the damage has also been done by contractors.

There is nothing the city can do, he said, except repair the cables and then send bills to the companies or contractors responsible for the damages. These bills are generally paid, Bingham said, but pointed out that that does not prevent part of the lighting system being out of commission much of the time.

CITY OFFICIALS IN DARK AS TO WHO TURNED OFF LIGHTS

City hall is in the dark, figuratively and actually speaking.

Tuesday morning all the electric lights went out and the juice disappeared from the electric heaters. Investigation thruout the building failed to reveal any fuses blown out or anything else wrong. Inquiry was made at the offices of the Ohio Power Co. to ascertain if they knew the cause. No report has been received by Frank Hume, city purchasing agent, at noon.

City officials discounted the idea that possibly the lights had been turned off because the city had not paid its light bill for city hall in several months.

SCOUT HEAD WILL BE OUTSIDE MAN

H. E. Simonton Will Appoint Successor to C. L. Conrad

Announcement was made Tuesday morning by President H. E. Simonton of the Lima Boy Scout council that the new scout executive to succeed C. L. Conrad will be an outsider. He said he would prefer to name a Lima man but no one here has been sufficiently trained in scout executive work to take over the duties.

No appointment can be announced until after the regional director at Columbus and the head official at New York City have placed their O. K. on the candidate selected for the position, Simonton said. He also stated that nothing came out of the meeting called for last night to discuss the situation as the meeting was entirely informal and not called by him as president of the council.

Telegram Announces Disaster to Former Residents

1,000 BUILDINGS BURNED

College Structures Feel Effects of Conflagration

Three families, former residents of Lima, are victims of the devastating fire that for the last 24 hours has been ravaging Berkeley, Calif., causing total loss of hundreds of homes and business houses, according to word received in Lima early Tuesday by Robert W. Parmenter, from his brother, George Parmenter, a resident of Berkeley.

Known former Lima people who have suffered loss of their homes are James B. Townsend, 1318 Highland, William Hyde, son of former manager, Howard Hyde, of the Faurot Opera House, and Paul Garretson, son of the late Benjamin Garretson, who resided on S. McDonald-st.

James Townsend, who is a brother to Mrs. Bessie Seymour, secretary of the Lima Historical society, was mayor of Lima in the 90's. His home was entirely destroyed. Townsend is a neighbor to the Parmenters, who live in apartments which were little affected by the flames.

PICK UP NOON STORY
HOMES DESTROYED
Homes of the above people, all of whom were well known here, have been wiped out and the unfortunate owners forced to vacate before the onrush of the flames.

George Parmenter, according to a message sent his brother in Lima, lives east of where the fire is confined and so far his property has not been menaced.

The fire spread from Vine on North-st, from Harst on South-st and east of Shattuck.

NEARLY 1,000 HOUSES BURNED

BERKELEY, Calif.—(Associated Press)—Fire sweeping over the hills east of Berkeley late yesterday, laid waste to the Cragnont and Euclid-av districts, destroying at least six hundred residences within an area estimated at sixty blocks in one of the choicest residential sections of the city, with damage estimated at $10,000,000 and rendering homeless approximately 2,400 persons.

No lives are known to have been lost, altho two students were seen to plunge into a vortex of fire when the roof of a house upon which they had climbed collapsed.

Hundreds of frenzied residents fled from the burning area as the fire swept down the slope of the hills, burned its way thru the closely settled and exclusive district and eventually died down to a smoldering ring of flames encompassing the entire area which it had devastated. The prosperous residential section was a smoky waste.

Cable Requests Commission to Follow Out Provisions of Franchise and Rule Carmen's Busses Off Railway Right of Way

Without discussion and without acting directly on the request, city commissioners Monday night received and ordered filed a demand from President D. J. Cable of the street railway company that the city force all jitneys and motor buses operating for hire off those streets on which the company operates its cars.

His letter read to the meeting of the commissioners carried a demand for full and complete compliance, by the city, with the provisions of Section 12 of the franchise ordinance. This obligates the city not only to keep all for hire vehicles off the streets where the company operates cars but also of all parallel streets within three blocks of the street car lines. Likewise, the city must not permit for hire vehicles to cross street car tracks, on any one street, at more than two points.

RECEIVED AND FILED

Commissioner Ellis Jones made the motion to receive and file the communication and Commissioner Earl Rohm seconded it. After the meeting Jones said there was nothing significant about the action of commissioners in refusing to order compliance with the franchise ordinance. City Manager C. A. Bingham said he had nothing to say as to whether the city will or will not comply with the demand of President Cable. Conditions will continue as now for the present, he said.

Prior to the meeting each commissioner had seen the Cable letter. Mayor Cunningham read the letter in open meeting and then it was ordered filed. Last Saturday The Lima News announced the letter had been received and gave an accurate forecast of its contents so it was apparent Monday night that the action of commissioners was predeceined.

In his letter Cable said that the company is and has been maintaining full service, that the jitneys and busses are "operating in competition and unlawfully" and are operating for hire. He charged that automobilists from "great distances" have come to Lima to operate jitneys and are without financial responsibility in case of accidents. He said the jitneys and busses are "endangering the safety" of people. He then quoted Section 12 of the franchise ordinance and called for its enforcement.

FINANCIAL OBLIGATION
He wrote that as part of the consideration for that franchise the company purchased 20 one-man safety cars, had obligated itself to spend $200,000 for betterments within two years from the time the franchise was granted and that the company was now spending $70,000 on improvements of its tracks between the Pennsylvania tracks and the river. He claimed that all material for this work has already been purchased.

Another matter brought out in the letter was that the company's investments in improvements in Grand-av, and Main and Kibby-sts "must be protected." He also wrote "the company is suffering serious losses by reason of the unlawful operation of the jitneys and motor busses." He closed his letter by asking immediate action to enforce the contract.

None of the commissioners would explain what they meant in tabling the demand instead of ordering compliance with the contract provisions of the franchise ordinance.

Mrs. Kibler in Custody; Sheriff Ready to Appear, Lanker Says

Threats to withdraw affidavits against Sheriff E. E. Terry, Van Wert-co, and Mrs. Ocie Kibler, Van Wert city, charged jointly with adultery, were made Tuesday by Sam Plummer, husband of Mrs. Nancy Plummer, 238 S. Vine-st, who Monday signed the two affidavits issued in Lima Criminal court.

Plummer charges false statements and misrepresentation were resorted to in securing the signature of Mrs. Plummer to the affidavits.

"She thought the affidavits and the signed statement she made before a notary were for information of Governor Donahey only," Plummer said.

STATE WORK THOUGHT

Plummer insisted the affidavits were brought to his wife to sign and that she did so with the understanding that she would not be involved in any court action. Her conception was, according to the husband, that evidence against Sheriff Terry and Mrs. Kibler was part of a secret state investigation.

Plummer conferred Tuesday at police headquarters with Judge Neil R. Polling, Police Chief Lanker and Police Inspector Strick as to what steps are required to withdraw the affidavits.

After his explanation had been offered he left headquarters without withdrawing the affidavits. At 1:30 p. m. Tuesday affidavits were in criminal court.

Mrs. Ocie Kibler was arrested Tuesday morning at Van Wert City on an adultery charge by the chief of police of that city, Police Chief Lanker stated.

TO BE RETURNED

Lima police will return her to this city to face trial in event the affidavit against her is not withdrawn, Lanker stated after he had been officially notified Tuesday that the arrest had been made.

Sheriff Terry is to appear in Lima Criminal court at 9 a. m. Wednesday to answer the charge. Police Chief Lanker asserted Terry was in Bowling Green Tuesday on official business and that he had Terry's promise to appear here Wednesday.

Charges against Terry and Mrs. Kibler, printed exclusively in Monday's edition of The Lima News caused a sensation at Van Wert city Monday night, a special correspondent of The Lima News stated.

Sheriff Terry, it is understood, has been the object of efforts of political opponents to remove him from office. Petitions addressed to Governor Donahey asking that the sheriff be removed from office for lack of law enforcement are said to be in circulation in Van Wert-co.

The petitions, it was stated, were in circulation before the charge of adultery was filed against the sheriff, whose family is prominently affiliated in Van Wert city affairs.

In her affidavits filed Monday in criminal court against the county official and the woman, and in a signed statement before a Lima notary public, Mrs. Plummer claimed that the woman, two children and a man, said to be Terry, but who posed as William Kibler, husband of the woman and a land salesman, lived in two rooms at her home as man and wife from December, 1922, to February, 1923.

SHEIK IS DEALT KNOCKOUT BLOW BY NEW STYLES FOR MEN

NEW YORK—(United Press)—The "Sheik" is passing with the new mode in men's clothes for winter. The slender, patent-haired laddie, who moulded into his form-fitting raincoat as tho he had been melted into them by the heat of the passion he affects, must go.

This year the husky, aass o'muscled, with broad shoulders and piano mover's physical feathers has his day.

Coats will be loose-fitting on easy, comfortable lines. They will have wide shoulders, which will show to advantage on the man. There will be no vent in the rear of the coats and lapels will be rolling and small at the neck. Because of the broad shoulders, the effect will be that of a shorter model.

Trousers will be full and flowing, higher at the fast line to cover the breach caused by high waisted vests.

And there will be tiny pleats at the waist line of the trousers. The length of the trousers will vary. In collegiate circles, no cuffs will be worn and the bottoms will drag the dance floor as the train of a lady's gown. The more conservative male's trousers will fall to the instep and will be toned with a cuff one to two inches. A double breasted vest as well as double-breasted coats, will have a big season. Smooth goods of striped patterns will replace the tweeds and rough materials. The race track plaid has seen its day.

Overcoats will be as comfortable and roomy as a living room with the box top of alster bidding strongly for popularity. The fabrics will be heavy, the colors bright—not eye blinking, but attractively bright. Horse blanket checks are still popular as lining.

WINTER BUSINESS HOPEFUL

Foreign Exchanges Show Some Improvement

FALL ACTIVITY IS QUIET

Bearishness Developed in Last Week's Trading

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK—(Special)—When everything is going swimmingly, then is the time to beware, they say. The financial and business world has been encountering enough breakers to prevent it from becoming intoxicatingly enthusiastic. The last few days, indeed, have brought a veritable state of news and events, favorable and unfavorable. The "Noes" had it in the first half of last week, and the stock market fell an average of three points while bonds also weakened. Later, however, encouraging happenings were more plentiful.

The main developments which fostered bearishness were these: Unfilled steel orders suffered a severe drop, and iron prices declined slightly. Banking of furnaces were reported from Pittsburgh. Copper touched its low price for the year.

Wheat and corn both gave way. Stocks broke sharply on Wednesday and did even worse on Thursday. Dealings swelled to over a million shares for the first day since June, a fact which emboldened the bears to redouble their attacks.

One or two unfavorable dividend announcements were made and cutting of payments by oil companies were freely predicted, as demoralization in the industry still prevails. August imports were the smallest since July of last year, and this was interpreted as reflecting marked falling off in the demand for raw materials, and as being, therefore, of greater significance than a modest increase in exports—these also were the slightest in a year, with two exceptions.

Reports were current of some let-up in building activity and of evidences here and there that there were more homes than tenants.

Employment reports were pitched in a somewhat milder key.

The terms on which the coal strike was settled inspired no cheerfulness in thinking circles.

Call money in Wall-st advanced, and Federal Reserve Banks again showed a decline in reserve, the tendency lately having been for loans to increase more than deposits.

The fuller information received from Japan emphasized the gravity of the catastrophe and trading in raw silk was still held in abeyance here. News that the Spanish army had revolted caused uneasiness, although later the fears of grave consequences subsided.

Mussolini's attitude, particularly regarding Fiume, continued to occasion concern.

Germany once again more than doubled in one week her ridiculous amount of worthless paper currency, causing banks here and elsewhere to cease dealing in marks.

French newspapers criticized and condemned Germany's latest proposal for settling the reparations problem. And, in general, more attention was paid to unfavorable than to favorable phases of the situation.

But the week's kaleidoscope had brighter phases.

For example, consumption of cotton increased materially and quotations went above 28c a pound and closed the week with a substantial gain. The whole complexion of this very important industry has, indeed, undergone a change.

Amount of railroad freight moved again exceeded all weekly records. Railroads placed large rail orders, the output of locomotives increased, and it was noted that railroad stocks exhibited far more resiliency than industrials.

Colder weather gave retail dry-goods business a distinct fillip. Marshall Field & Co. reported:

There were more merchants in the market, and from nearly every section of the country they bring reports of a very active retail business owing to the early cool weather. Collections continued satisfactory.

Said Dun's Review: "Despite continued irregularities in demand and prices, underlying confidence marks the domestic business situation. Various drawbacks and uncertainties will prevail, yet there is less hesitation and operations are broadening in response to autumn requirements."

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

THE WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

Italy and Greece --- Mine Strike --- Japan

(BY CHARLES P. STEWART)

IN the matter of the Greco-Italian dispute the League of Nations seems to have saved its face, any way.

Italy threatened to quit the league if her Greek policy were interfered with. Yet the league COULDN'T let Mussolini defy it completely. It would have been too flagrant. Neither could the case be passed up altogether. It was the first important test of the league. Indications were it would break up entirely if it didn't do SOMETHING.

So it referred the quarrel to the Council of Ambassadors, consisting of the leading league members' principal diplomats. They've decided Greece must do what Italy demanded, but took some of the sting out of it by so expressing themselves that the Greeks can pretend they're submitting to the league rather than just to Italy.

England made a creditable showing during the league discussion. So did most of the smaller countries, notably the South American. But for France's evident unwillingness to offend Italy, the league might have made a better showing.

Greece is trying now to "pass the buck" to the Albanians, who have practically no friends.

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD

A dispute between Italy and Jugoslavia (Greater Serbia) is likely next. Each country thinks she ought to have Fiume. Mussolini's proposed a compromise form of government of the city. Jugoslavia doesn't like it. Negotiations haven't been broken off.

numbers revealed more advances than declines in prices, with foodstuffs — happily — predominating among the recoveries.

How international bankers regard the trend in Europe is best reflected by foreign exchange rates. Improvement was shown for the week by francs, by sterling, and by Italian, Greek, Belgian, Yugo-Slavin exchange. South American exchanges also improved a little, while Japanese exchange stands exactly where it did a year ago.

The very fact that Germany's currency has become practically worthless is regarded as an influence making for determined efforts to effect reparations settlement and a readjustment of Germany's whole financial structure.

Notwithstanding the views voiced in France, it is believed here that the prospect for effective action is distinctly brighter than at any previous time.

In responsible circles the fluctuations in industrial stocks are not viewed with alarm. Operations manifestly are largely professional. On finding that the public did not respond widely to efforts to mark prices up, the professionals turned round and sold short. The market being thin, their operations easily affected prices. But holders of securities throughout the country have not been stampeded.

While it would be an exaggeration to say that Fall activity has fulfilled the expectations of the most optimistic, it remains true that nothing has occurred to warrant anything but a reasonably hopeful view of the outlook for the remainder of the year.

yet but they're likely to be at any minute.

It isn't so much the policy of Italy, as a nation, but of the irresponsible personal ambition of Mussolini that Europe is most afraid.

MINE STRIKE OVER?

Indications are that the hard coal strike's ended—nearly.

Mine owners and miners have accepted the compromise Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania proposed.

They were at work over the week-end drafting a new agreement. The rank and file of the workers will have to ratify it but it's almost certain they'll do so.

It isn't a permanent settlement, however,—just postpones the evil day.

GOOD FROM EVIL

In one respect the Japanese disaster did good.

Trouble was simmering between this country and Japan. It might have come to a boil, but there was danger.

Now, from sympathy with the Japanese on America's part, and from freely expressed gratitude on the part of the Japanese for America's prompt and liberal aid, it's likely this danger will be removed, at least for years to come.

KOREANS ARE BLAMED

It isn't ordinarily at a moment of great natural disaster that political discontent manifests itself, but it's doing so in Japan. It's said to be very serious. Koreans are blamed. The Japanese brought this on themselves by their grab of Korea and their government's methods there, but it's a terrible time for them to have to answer for it.

IN THE RUHR

French papers—not so much those in Germany—keep hinting at progress toward settlement of the Ruhr difficulty. According to rumor French and German "big business" men are arriving at an agreement. If so, there's hope of an end to the trouble, for it's been a business dispute from the start.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER IS ARRESTED AT KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—William Z. Foster, arrested here last night after appealing to an audience in Carpenter's Hall for funds to help in his trial for alleged sedition at Bridgman, Mich., was released early today on $1,000 bail. John Michels, who was secretary of the meeting, was also held under arrest and under $1,000 bail with Foster. Although no formal charge was placed against the two men, police said they were arrested because Foster was spreading ideas which sounded un-American. Foster was ordered to appear today before Chief of Police Vassar. About 300 heard Foster's speech, "My trial in Michigan for communism." A total of $63 was subscribed for his defense fund before he was arrested.

Pressmen of New York Publications Are on Strike

NEW YORK—(Associated Press)—Most all morning newspapers in New York failed to appear today as a result of a strike of members of Web Pressmen's Union Number 25 which was called shortly after midnight.

The city's millions went to work with little or no knowledge of the day's events as there were but few newspapers to be had. These were first editions of a number of publications which daily are on the streets before midnight and were quickly exhausted. The New York Times and the Herald, whose first editions ordinarily are not published until after midnight, did not come off the presses. First editions of the World, American, Tribune, Daily News and Telegraph were issued.

The strike was called at the conclusion of a four-hour meeting of the printing men. President David Simmons, of the union, declared that but one of the printers at the meeting had voted against the strike, which he said grew out of inability of the union and the publishers to agree to a working contract to replace one which expired September 1.

Succeeds to Vacancy Caused by Resignation of Dr. Files

NATIONALLY KNOWN DOCTOR

Rebuilding of Institution Planned by County Trustees

Dr. J. G. Pace, of Woodman, Colorado, was elected superintendent of the District Tuberculosis hospital by trustees of the institution at a meeting held for the purpose Monday evening. He will succeed Dr. C. A. Files, who recently resigned because of the precarious condition of his health.

Dr. Pace is a recognized expert on tuberculosis and the trustees of the local institution are fortunate to obtain his services. Dr. A. C. Adams secretary declared.

Dr. Pace for four years past has been superintendent medical director of the Modern Woodmen of America tuberculosis camp at Woodman, Colo.

The camp is one of the largest and best equipped in the United States. There are 188 cottages and a large hospital in the camp and a herd of 100 registered Holstein dairy cows supply the camp with pure nutritious milk.

HEALTH A FACTOR

Because physicians ordered him to a lower altitude following an operation at the Mayo brothers hospital, Rochester, Minn., the hospital trustees were able to interest Dr. Pace in coming here. He will continue his connection with Woodman camp, however, in an advisory capacity.

The new superintendent will arrive in Lima October 1, and assume charge of the tuberculosis hospital October 9.

Under Dr. Pace's management, trustees plan to make the tuberculosis hospital one of the best in the country.

The methods of treatment will be changed, it is announced. Purchase of an X-ray machine, and lights for treatment of glandular and bone tuberculosis will be made by the trustees? When finished the institution, trustees say, will be small but thoroughly modern.

Trustees hired Dr. Pace, without

RAILROAD AGREES WITH OTTAWA

Employs Crossing Watchmen as Advised by Mayor

OTTAWA — Baltimore and Ohio railroad company has come to the terms of the village council and has agreed to place a watchman at the Main-st. crossing at night.

Beginning Tuesday, John Woegels, former section foreman, assumes the place of second trick watchman, working from 3 p. m. until 9 p. m. Joseph Pfister, who for 28 years has stood guard at the Main-st. crossing, continues on the truck from 7 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Mayor Beutler and the village council, after an ultimatum to the railroad company, advising them that unless a watchman was placed on duty at night, crossing of engineers and cars would be passing thru the village at a rate of eight miles an hour, would be made.

Provisions of this order seriously interfered with fast trains thru Ottawa, it is said especially No. 54 a. m. train, which does not stop here save for Detroit passengers.

Rather than suffer the trouble which the council threatened to cause, the railroad complied with the order. Mayor Beutler has maintained the crossing is one of the most dangerous along the line of the railroad and the council supported him in an effort to get away with the threatened danger to life and limb.

CHILDREN SUING STEP-MOTHER

OTTAWA — The old story of the marriage of an old man with a young woman and of her apparent desire to wrest the entire estate from his children at death was rehearsed in court Monday in the case of the State of Ohio against Mrs. Clara L. Ream of Sandusky.

Henry Ream of Continental, some years ago married Mrs. Ream, many years his junior. They lived together for a year, when death took him. He left no will.

His three children charge that Mrs. Ream did not let the complete amount of the estate owned by Ream in the inventory. They are suing for $1,500, alleged to be due on this account.

Suit was started in probate court and afterward certified to common pleas court by Judge H. M. Summers. A motion to dismiss the action was brought Monday on the grounds that summons of Mrs. Ream was served in Ohio and not in this county.

She had appeared in probate court in the same action. Judge Listman held that her appearance constituted like appearance in common pleas court. The case will be set for trial at the October term of court.

In a former action, children of Ream were awarded a judgment for $300 as a part of the estate left by their father to which they were entitled.

Attorney O. T. Lippincott of Lima who is representing the Ream children came to Ottawa, Monday for the court hearing.

BOARD CONSIDERS SITUATION

Putnam-co Election Officials Faced With Problem

OTTAWA — The board of elections of Putnam co still has under consideration the question of certifying a ticket to be placed on the ballot for members of the board of education in Columbus Grove school district.

Democrats named Dr. H. H. Sink, George Smith, Martin Crawford, A. E. Campbell and Guy Irwin.

Republicans placed on the ticket William Goodwin, John Beggs, William Gottman, Charles W. Doty and W. B. Stanley.

Frank Logan, insurgent member of the county board of education, declaring that neither party designated which persons were for long and short term, said the nominations were invalid.

Logan and his supporters placed a

FAIR NEEDS GOOD WEATHER

Overflow of Exhibits Seen at Putnam-co Exposition

OTTAWA — All that is required to make the Putnam-co Fair a big success is good weather.

This was the prediction Tuesday of Henry Collar, of Vaughnsville, president of the Fair. Collar said that cattle and stock barns are filled and tents are being erected to care for the overflow. Entries are coming in in all departments Tuesday with the same rush which characterized the opening of the week.

Sisters who teach in the Ottoville and Glandorf schools have an exhibit of sewing, made by their pupils, this year.

Continental High school is showing manual training work, in a most creditable display and Vaughnsville and Leipsic schools are showing a display of work done in the Smith-Hughes classes.

Races will begin Wednesday and continue through the week.

Word has come to Secretary W. H. Tolson that many Civil War veterans, their wives and widows will be at the fair every day. The board has extended them a special courtesy that upon any day they will be admitted free.

OTTAWA HUSBAND SUING WIFE

Contested Divorce Case Heard by Judge Eastman

OTTAWA — Future welfare of a child is at stake in the contested divorce case of William A. Dillon against Frances Dillon, heard Monday before Judge E. R. Eastman in common pleas court.

The case presented some unusual situations. Witnesses for Dillon testified that his wife refused to nurse the baby and that she made a trip to New York.

Mrs. Dillon, a pretty, little pink-cheeked blonde, declared she did not have enough to eat and that neighbors invited her to their home to partake of food. She said she was forced to go to work to earn clothing for herself.

Mrs. Dillon also charged that her husband stole a sack of sugar from a neighbor and that he brought it home and she used the sugar in the ordinary course of her housework.

At the close of the hearing, Judge Eastman took the case under consideration.

SCHOOLS CLOSE

OTTAWA — All schools of this village have been dismissed for the week to give the boys and girls an opportunity to attend the Putnam-co Fair, which opened Tuesday. Thursday will be school day at the Fair, when children of all grades will be admitted free.

THREE MILL LEVY PETITIONS

HUNDREDS of Lima voters are signing the petitions in circulation for the purpose of getting the three mill levy on the ballots at the November election. The petitions are in the hands of members of the Safety Department who are taking the chief burden of the responsibility of obtaining enough signatures.

Various statements are being made relative to probable increases in salaries if the additional money is voted. Significant is the announcement that no person receiving $3,000 or more a year will have a chance of getting more money. This would leave the field open for practically all employees below the executive officers.

The police and firemen believe they should have more money. The point is not debatable for their salaries are far less than the average made by industrial workers. They have a hard job and a dangerous one. They certainly are entitled to a living wage.

Thru action of the commission Monday night, it is certain that the voters will have an opportunity to vote on the proposed tax increase. What their attitude will be cannot be foretold. It is not likely that a particularly heavy vote will be cast and the lighter the vote, the better the chance of the proposal winning, precedent considered.

While we are heartily in favor of giving firemen and policemen as well as other deserving city employees more money if it can be done consistently, we do not believe that salaries alone should be allowed to overshadow all other considerations in this matter. The city will have little or no income for operation next year as matters stand and if a generous citizenry votes to tax itself $3 a thousand valuation more, it will expect something besides salary advances.

CONSTITUTION WEEK

THIS is Constitution Week. In every state of the union particular attention is being given to the dissemination of facts concerning the tenets of the great document written by the forefathers, out of the fruits of their wisdom, for the future guidance of the nation that was born thru strife and blood and privation and sacrifice, the culmination of a long period of oppression against a people striving to work out their destiny in the then new world.

Observance of the 136th year of the existence of the Constitution of the United States is especially appropriate. As a people we are perhaps too prone to forget the great duty we owe to ourselves and to those who gave of their very life blood that we of the present and those who are to follow are the possessors of a precious heritage.

The Constitution was framed to obtain for the people the full benefits of human endeavor, rather than for a dynasty or the maintenance of dangerous privileges. Thus the United States is secure in its position in the matter of government. We may wander at times a short distance away from the letter and the spirit of that great humanitarian document, but inevitably the tendency is to return to its provisions in the spirit of confidence that has obtained for more than a century.

Great good flows from an occasional recurrence to the contemplation of the provisions of the Constitution and what they mean for the people and the institutions of government. The citizens of this land, as a whole, cannot go far wrong permanently so long as the document which is being honored in a special manner this week is recognized as the foundation of our national life.

HOW OFFSPRING MULTIPLY

JOHN BRUBACHER came to America from Switzerland in the year 1710. The other day 1500 of his descendants held a reunion to honor his memory. If all the people of 1710 had that many descendants the earth's population would be 1500 times as many as it was 213 years ago.

Old-time economists had a theory that if nature didn't kill so many of us by wars, famine, pestilence and the like, population would multiply beyond the earth's ability to support it. The World War and such catastrophes as the recent earthquake in Japan seem to be part of the workings of this theory.

SAFEGUARD THE PUBLIC

JUST now Lima is showing marked signs of advancement in the downtown district. Many places are torn up which indicates progress. But at some of these places where accidents might occur, only meagre protection is offered the public. The city should make a survey of all construction work now under way and take steps to have conditions to be found at many of them remedied.

MOSQUITOES SUSTAINED

The South Carolina legislature authorized the building of a dam across the Catawba river. The dam created a pond in and about which there were stagnant places where the malaria carrying mosquitoes might breed. The owner of some land about half a mile from the pond brought suit against the power company which constructed the dam, alleging that the sickness produced by the malaria carrying mosquitoes had led to the removal of tenants from his land and consequent depreciation in the value of the land. He won a judgment on this claim.

The case was carried to the supreme court, where the judgment was reversed. It appeared to the lawyers in this court that the skaters had not confined their malaria carrying activities to this particular bit of land or these particular tenants but had distributed the disease to all sections near the dam. Wherefore the nuisance was a public one, and the law does not entitle a plaintiff to damages for an injury from a public nuisance unless he can show that his particular injury is different in degree or kind from the injury suffered by the public in general.

And since the act which created the nuisance was authorized by the legislature, it cannot be considered a public nuisance! So the court declared. The supreme court held that the plaintiff had no private cause of action unless he could show that the authority conferred upon the power company by the legislature was negligently exercised or that his injury was peculiar to himself and different from the injury suffered by the rest of the public affected.

There was a somewhat analogous case in Wisconsin or Minnesota a few years ago. Men employed on a job were damaged from the contractor on the ground that the water he supplied for drinking was polluted and as a consequence the men developed typhoid fever. Luckily for those men

NEW YORK

(BY CASUAL STROLLER)

NEW YORK — (Special)—Anybody who goes into a New York restaurant and eats a piece of cake and inadvertently bites into a nail concealed in the cake will have to pay his own dentist's bill. That's what the court of appeals has just decided. A waitress tried to collect damages after she had bitten into a piece of cake and got a highball nail so entangled with her jaw that she had to have three teeth removed. The court held that the cake eater had no contractual relation with the manufacturer of the cake, and therefore couldn't collect damages.

The West may be wild, but it must be tame compared to New York. A wild Texas steer brought on to take part in a rodeo took one look at the Bronx, became wilder, dashed across a park, out into the street, bowled over a woman, and started to make a bee line for his native state. Cowboys and cowgirls tried to stop him. But he just kept on going, until a cop, who probably never before saw a live steer went after him, and brought him down with his revolver.

For many years Abe Potash and Mawruss Portmutter, created by Montague Glass, have amused audiences thruout the country. But there was one man who never saw the joke. He was Mr. Abe Potash of New York. It was no laughing matter to him to hear his name used in jest. So finally he went to court about it. He petitioned to have his name changed to Harry Gilbert. The judge granted the request, and now Gilbert, nee Potash, has inserted an ad in the papers telling the world about it.

THE INEVITABLE

Grief has no boundaries or dividing lines; It trends the world according to God's will, And gives no thought to any man's designs Nor heeds the dream he struggles to fulfill.

It is the common visitor to all, It comes unbidden to the great and low; We know some day upon us it will fall, But when the hour shall be we cannot know.

We may not plead: "Oh Lord, we need his smile."

the legislature had not conferred authority on the contractor to do the job.

This idea of holding those responsible who wittingly or carelessly spread disease is apparently growing. The South Carolina court took notice of the fact in rendering this opinion: "As a matter of supreme public opinion" the court said, "the affirmation of this judgment, opening the floodgates of litigation would not only bankrupt the useful institutions which mark the progress of this state, but would bar forever the development of millions of horse power in the streams that now run wanton to the sea." The court was romantic. The pond could have been rendered mosquito free with very little attention.

We dream our dreams and sign our weeks and days, We send our hopes of earthly joys afar, We think we must press on for gold or praise, Only to learn how trivial these are.

The wheels stop— There is cry upon the door— What seemed important has been thrust aside— How strange it seems some men tell as before! What matters trade when one you loved has died?

Have You Ever Built a Grate Fire?

Just as the grate fire must have paper, kindling and coal, so the gasoline you use must have three heat-producing elements to give you the best results from your motor. These elements are (1) a light, highly-volatile portion ("paper") to insure quick starting. (2) As wide as possible a range of increasingly heavy portions (the "kindling") to provide smooth acceleration and clean burning, and (3) A heavy portion ("coal") to develop great heat and power.

Red Crown Gasoline has long been famous for its complete chain of boiling points. It meets every requirement of a perfect year-round motor fuel.

It always has the heat power and range necessary to efficient, economical motor operation under all the varying conditions of weather, engine speed and load. It is always available at more than 450 Standard Service Stations anywhere in Ohio and at many stores and garages as well.

5 Grades Polarine Motor Oils

Polarine Motor Oils are supplied in five grades to insure correct lubrication of every type of motor. Polarine Transmission Lubricants and Greases provide perfect lubrication of all transmission units. And the Polarine Chart of Recommendations is a quick, sure guide to the proper grade for every part of your car. See the Polarine chart at any Standard Service Station—or at any grocery or garage where you find the Polarine sign.

STREET REPAIRS TO CEASE

Money for Work is Exhausted
Bingham Explains

ACCURED BILLS TO BE PAID

May Not be Able to Handle
Emergency Cases

Repairs of every kind on all city streets, paved or unpaved, must be immediately discontinued and no more such work done during the remainder of 1923, City Manager C. A. Bingham told the commissioners at their meeting Monday night.

Exhaustion of all available money for street repair work and the impossibility of transferring other funds to the street repair fund were given by the city manager as the reason for stoppage of street repair work. He said that the repair crews will have to be laid off either Tuesday or Wednesday at the very latest. About $32,000 has been received this year from auto licenses fees he said and this is gone.

Prior to the formal meeting of the commissioners, Bingham told some of them that the city is in debt to the tune of $2,400 for repairs just finished and no money is in sight for meeting these obligations. They will be paid however. He did not tell the commissioners that in open meeting.

Commissioners listened to his statement and then adjourned without any comment. Bingham said after the meeting that the people who are demanding that streets on which they live be repaired "are simply out of luck." Patch work has been done all over the city as far as funds were available, he said, but even this has to be stopped.

Just what the city will do in the event that some street becomes so badly in need of repairs as to endanger public safety, Bingham was not prepared to say Monday night. He said he would wait until such a condition existed. C. E. Bohemeyer, street superintendent, has had crews making repairs on a number of paved streets and last Wednesday morning he began grading the dirt streets. All this work, Bingham said, ceases not later than Wednesday.

While officials say that there appears now to be no hope that street repair work can be carried on any longer this year, they declare that if the three mill levy is ordered at the November election and the money is made available in 1924, much repair work can be done next spring. They admit that neglecting the repair work from now until next spring will make it more costly than ever but Bingham says it cannot be helped.

CONDUCT COUNTY HEALTH WORK

Dr. J. J. Sutter Lecturing at Rural Schools

Health campaign for county school children is being conducted by the county board of health, Dr. J. J. Sutter, health officer, announced Tuesday.

Dr. Sutter is visiting all county schools and giving short talks to pupils on general health topics. Charts and health literature is also being distributed. List of ten health rules to obey and ten things not to do has recently been prepared by the department and is being placed in every school room in the county.

Health conditions in the county schools are good, Dr. Sutter stated. The majority of children are in excellent health and the school buildings are in good condition.

Weight and general nutrition records are being kept of the students by the teachers in the majority of the schools. Charts and other necessary material are supplied by the health department.

Health office will make two surveys of the schools this year. One inspection is now being held and the other will be conducted in the spring.

County school nurse is also making a record of health conditions in all county schools. This record includes the condition of the buildings as well as the general health of the pupils.

A DELIGHTFUL PARTY HELD MONDAY

ALL colors predominated in the decorations of the table at the attractive seven o'clock dinner given Monday evening by Miss Florence Price, McBeth-apis, and Miss Magdalene Stolzenbach, W. Market-st., in the private dining room of the Hotel Argonne. Miss Mary Farmer and Leslie Reid were honored guests at the affair. Covers were laid for 16 guests. Large platter baskets of purple and rose colored asters, combined with ribbon bows of the same shades, were on either side of a group of rose-colored candles, tied with purple ribbons, which formed the centerpiece of the table. At the extreme ends of the table candles were also used. Nut cups carried out the same color scheme and place cards were miniature brides and grooms. Guests of Misses Price and Stolzenbach were Miss Parmenter, Miss Janet White, Miss Violet Bradley, Mr. Reid, Ralph Mackenzie, Ned Seymour, Joe D. Gooding, Harry Wright, Mrs. Harry Gayer, of Cincinnati, John Reid of Montreal, Canada, Mr. and Mrs. William Reid of Schenectady, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Parmenter of Shidler, Okla.

Mrs. Ray Monroe and daughter, Rosemary, W. O'Connor-av., have returned from a four weeks' stay in New York and Atlantic City. While east, they were the guests of Mrs. Monroe's sister, Mrs. Frank Sidler.

Dr. and Mrs. A. Borman of Toledo have returned to their home after being the week-end guests of Mr. and Mr. H. B. Hoffman, N. McDonald-st. They made the trip by motor.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

DEAR MISS SMART:

I AM a girl 18 years. I have been out of school two years. Now, what would you advise me to do? I have been to school for four years, but I do not return to school, but I cannot decide which to do.

What do you think of young people who are continually whispering to one another while in a crowd especially boys? I think it is awfully rude. Of course it seems equally as rude for girls to do so, but while I was away this summer some of the young men seemed to make a practice of it. I of course was terribly embarrassed as I think most anyone would have been, don't you?

I have a girl friend whose complexion is quite bad and she seems to think that the young people will not like her on account of it. What do you think is about it proper? If the person speaking asked, "What you think want you to go and the person who is to answer, "Not very badly, would it be correct?"

Please print your best remedy for blackheads. For a very severe case of them.

How is my English and writing? Thank you, I am

YOUR statement about your previous education is rather indefinite. How far had you gone in your school work? I would advise returning and graduating from high school. You will never regret having graduated and you may get an excellent business course at either of the city's high schools. However, if you would be five or six years behind the others in your class, perhaps you would accomplish more by entering Business College. You should be able to decide for yourself, tho; do the thing that will benefit you the most.

It is very rude to whisper when out with a group of people. I agree with you that both boys and girls do it and it certainly shows very poor manners. To see someone whisper to another, it usually makes the rest of the crowd feel rather uncomfortable, doesn't it? However, if you are around those who deem it necessary to whisper, master the situation and start conversation with others near you.

Of course, the more attractive the girl is the more popular she will be. If she has a pleasing personality and an attractive appearance, she is bound to have many friends. Perhaps she might improve her complexion by seeing a doctor and following his suggestions concerning her diet.

No. "Badly" is not the correct word to use in that case. They were not very eager (or anxious) for me to go would be a better statement.

Two good remedies for blackheads are:

(1) 1 dram of powdered sulphur, 1 dram of glycerine; 1/2 pint of rose water; 2 drams of spirits of camphor. Put on face and leave on over night. Wash in morning with green soap and water.

(2) Alcohol 4 oz; rose water, 2 oz; boracic acid, 2 teaspoons. Wipe over your face with a piece of cotton after washing with green soap and hot water.

Both your writing and English very good.

Mrs. Smart:—Just read me last week and I came back and I would like your advice please. Would it be for me to write to him to let me and let's make up?

MRS. BROWN EYES:—Rather difficult for me to give you my advice when I know of your case. Why did you leave him? Which one of the two was the wrong? If you were honest for him leaving you, why not go back and try to seek forgiveness? Association, try to affect a congenial leave the two of you.

STATE IMPROVING ELIDA-RD

Eradication of Surface Waves
Object of Officials

Eradication of the waves in the surface of Elida-nd west of Lima will require two seasons of surface treatment, according to P. A. Daum, division engineer for the state highway department.

State road men have started putting on the surface treatment for this year, and will complete the work before the first of October.

About a quarter of a gallon of asphalt oil to the square yard is sprayed onto the surface of the road, and then stone chips are scattered broadcast.

Traffic soon forces the chips in and oil into the road surface, fusing them together. As water or other liquid tend to drain into low places the oil flows into the depressions on the surface, filling them level, and the chips give body to the mixture.

Investigation made by Daum of the Elida-Lima section, he said, reveals that the road was poorly rolled.

Efforts to hold the contractor responsible are useless, Daum said, as all of the work was done under supervision of an inspector.

The McArthur Co., contractors, however, were required to renew the bums and ditches this year. This work has been completed.

How To PUT A "KICK" IN IT

—A tip for "wets" and "drys"

We are all liable to feel "out of sorts" at times—need something with a "kick" in it to clear the brain, brighten the eye, put "pep" in the system.

Best way to do this is to take—with, or without, a "chaser"—that harmless yet thoroughly efficient family medicine, Beecham's Pills.

"Two for adults and one for children" is the phrase of health that has meant good digestion and a clear system to countless healthy, happy people the world over for the past 80 years.

ESCORT'S A MERE SCENIC DETAIL

(BY MARIAN HALE)
PARIS (Special)—In the midst of all this talk about styles for women, it is well not to neglect styles for men, because in Paris the careful Romeo sees to it that his costume complements Juliet's, or at least that it does not introduce a jarring note.

It is quite customary for a woman to announce to her suitor what type of frock she is going to wear on a certain occasion, so that his choice of colors may conform to hers, instead of starting an argument.

If she is going in a gray costume, he sees to it that his hat band and his necktie are as near the same shade of her frock as it is possible to get them.

JUST AN ACCESSORY

If she is wearing gay colors, he properly brings her gayety into relief by dressing very soberly himself.

In other words, the gallant Frenchman regards himself as an accessory, and dresses accordingly.

In Deauville, where the fashionable women of the world are vying with each other to create a picturesque effect, it is said women are choosing their escorts more for their pictorial value than for the charm of their society.

The blonde, for instance, who wishes to emphasize the blue of her eyes and the gold of her hair, appears at the Casino or the races only with a dark-haired man, so that his appearance may offer a contrast to her own, and the woman with the sable locks and midnight eyes selects the most perfect Saxon of all.

Misses Gertrude and Ruth McCray, N. Metcalf-st., entertained at an informal evening of bridge at their home Monday, complimenting Miss Genevieve Barr of Pittsburgh, the houseguest of Miss Esther Plummer, S. Baxter-st. Three tables were filled for the bridge games at the conclusion of which Miss Esther Plummer held high score. A two-course luncheon was served, Miss Veronica McCray assisting her sisters in serving.

Guests were Misses Meredith Shifher acquaintances to promenade with.

Left to his own devices, the Frenchman dresses with much more imagination than the Englishman or American. "At the present time his coat buttons with only one button, directly at the waistline, bringing the coat very tightly about the waist and suggesting that the stays abandoned by women have been adopted by men.

Shirts are highly colored and violently figured and neckties are hectic enough, when there is no woman's costume to be considered. Shoes of all colors and combinations of color are tolerated and some Frenchmen actually outfit women in the number of finger rings worn.

ferly, Albertina Lynch, Esther Plummer, Catherine O'Connor, Jeanette Willower, Nell Pursell, Virginia Myers, Francis Meade, Dorothy McCray and the guest of honor.

Henry Wemmer, W. Market-st., left Sunday to resume his studies at Culver Military Institute, Culver, Ind.

Miss Esther Plummer, S. Baxter-st., is entertaining at her home Tuesday evening, complimenting her houseguest, Miss Genevieve Barr, Pittsburgh.

Lima Lady Relates How the Plant Juice Has Given Her Relief

CHANGE IS WONDERFUL

Many people who have taken this herbal medicine, Plant Juice, have said afterward that it seemed to benefit them from the first dose they took. Just recently, Mrs. Ella Ashburn, who lives at 518 1-2 Linden avenue Lima, and is a well known resident of this city, called on the Plant Juice Man and gave the following surprising testimonial.

"I could see a change in my condition almost from the first," said Mrs. Ashburn.

"I had suffered for a long time with pains in my back and shoulders and had awful morning spells. I could not sleep right and had a tired, distressed feeling all the time and was suffering with a bad case of the catarrh.

"I read about your Plant Juice medicine and started taking it and could see a change almost from the first. The bloating spells are about all gone now and the pains in my body have been relieved. I eat and sleep fine; do not have that tired, distressed feeling anymore and my catarrh is improving right along.

"I think the change in my condition is wonderful and I do not hesitate to recommend your Plant Juice medicine to everybody."

Indigestion—pain and agony from gas and bloating—heartburn—sour stomach—biliousness—fermenting of food—headaches—weak, tired out feeling—these are the complaints of millions of Americans and it is in such cases that this herbal medicine, Plant Juice, has proved so successful.

Plant Juice is sold in Lima at Hunter's drug stores at 49 Public Square at Main and Wayne-sts. and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office—Adv.

The Isle Of Retribution

BY EDISON MARSHALL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ned Cornet, his fiancée, Lenore and Bess, a seamstress, are survivors of a shipwreck. They take refuge on an island inhabited by a man named Dooomsdorf and his Indian wife. The Dooomsdorfs tell Ned and the girls that they must be his slaves. Lenore is too weak to do any work. Ned is too weak to do any work. The burden falls entirely on the shoulders of Bess and Ned. The prisoners build a cabin and Dooomsdorf gives them an old stove. As soon as the cabin is completed, Ned and Bess are informed that they are to be trappers. Lenore is allowed to remain with the squaw and help her with the housework. Bess helps her with separate routes, and the squaw starts Bess on her way and Dooomsdorf instructs Ned.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
The dam itself didn't appear to be a natural formation of rock. It looked more like driftwood, but it was inconceivable that mere drift could be piled in this ordered way. "It must be a beaver dam," he said.

"You're right for once," Dooomsdorf agreed.

"A big beaver weighs about 50 pounds—and he's about the handsomest I've ever seen. You'll wonder what the purpose of the dam is. As far as I can make out, simply to keep the water at one level. You know these little streams rise and fall like the tides. They've learned, in a few hundred thousand years of their development, that it doesn't pay to build a nice house and then have the creek come up and wash it away and drown them out."

Dooomsdorf explained that a trap set on the house itself so alarmed the animals that the entire colony was likely to desert the dam. Instead, the trap was set just below the surface of the water at a landing—a place where the beaver went in and out of the water in the course of their daily work.

Dooomsdorf still marched in his easy, swinging gait; and over it was a harder fight to keep pace. Yet Ned dared not lag behind. His master's temper was ever uncertain in these long, tired hours of afternoon.

Tired out, weakened, aching in every muscle and no far from the absolute limit of exhaustion, Ned staggered to the cabin door at last. He had put out all the traps he had brought from his home cabin; thence his course lay along a blazed trail that skirted the edge of the narrow timber belt, over the ridge to the Forks cabin. Dooomsdorf entered, then in the half-light stood regarding the younger man who had followed him in.

Ned tried to stand erect. He must not yield to the almost irresistible impulse to throw himself down on the floor and rest. He dared not risk Dooomsdorf's anger; how did he know what instrument of torture the latter's satanic ingenuity might contrive in this lonely cabin? Nor was his mood to be trusted tonight. His grey eyes shone with suppressed excitement; and likely enough he would be glad of an excuse for some diversion to pass the hours pleasantly. It was very lonely and strange out here, in the open, in the full sweep of the wind over the barren lands.

But Ned wasn't aware of Dooomsdorf's plans. The great blond man stretched his arms, yawning, but turned to go. "I'll see you in about five days," he remarked laconically.

DOOMS DORF STRUCK HIM OFF.

New weakened abruptly from his reverie. "You mean—you aren't going to show me anything more?"

"I've shown you how to set your traps, for every kind of an animal," Dooomsdorf said. "You ought to be able to do the rest. By the time you come around, well, likely I've freezing weather—that means you'll have to thaw out your animals before you skin them."

"Here and here and here"—he paused, to put in Ned's hands a clasp hunting knife, razor, harp, a small pocket hound to whet his tools and a light axe that had been hanging back of the stove—"are some things you'll need. The time will come when you'll need snowshoes, too. There's a pair on the rafters. Now I'm going to tramp back to the cabin to spend the night—in more agreeable company."

For a moment the two men stood regarding each other in absolute silence. Then Dooomsdorf's keen ears, eager for such sounds, caught the whisper of Ned's troubled breathing. Presently a leering smile flashed through the blond beard.

"You mean—you and Lenore will be alone?" Ned asked.

"You saw the squaw start out with Bess?" was the triumphant answer. "But why should you care? It was Leonard's own wish to stay. She'd take me and comfort any time, sooner than endure the cold with you. Of such stuff, my boy, are women made."

Ned's face, lifeless and white as a stone, was no longer loose with terror. A desperate fury had brought him to the verge of madness.

"That's a foul lie!" he shouted, reckless of Dooomsdorf's retaliation. "She didn't dream that you would do that—"

Dooomsdorf struck him off, hurling him against the wall; but it was not with the idea of inflicting punishment.

Ned could not speak, but Dooomsdorf looked at him with the fire of a zealot in his eyes.

"I don't want anything that's that easy," he said with infinite contempt. "Sometimes the game is harder. I take back something I inferred a moment ago—that all women would do the same. The best of them, the most of them, still will go through hell for an ideal; and that's the kind whose spirit is worth while to break. Do you know any one who right now, likely enough, is trudging along through this hellish snow with forty pounds of traps over her back?"

Ned shuddered, hurrying off his doubt, believing yet in the fidelity of his star. "I don't know, and I don't care," he answered.

"That's what Bess Gilbert is doing, and you know it. There, young man, is a woman worthy of my steel!"

He turned and strode out the door. Ned was left to his thoughts and the still, small voices of the waste places, alone with the wilderness night whose word was the wind that sobbed unhappy secrets as it swept his cabin roof.

XXI

Thus began a week of trial for Ned. For the first time in his life he was thrown wholly upon his own resources, standing or falling by his own worth. Should he fall insensible in the snow there were none to see him and bring him into shelter. If he should go astray and miss the cabin there was no one to set him on the right path again. He was meeting the wilderness alone, and face to face.

He crossed the divide to the Forks cabin, followed the springs to Thirty-Mile cabin, descended to the sea, and along the shore to the home cabin, just as he had been told to do. He put out his traps as he went in what seemed to him the most likely places, using every wile Dooomsdorf had taught him to increase his chances for a catch. In spite of the fact that he went alone, the second day was ever so much easier than the first; and he came into the home cabin only painfully tired, but not absolutely exhausted, on the fifth.

All through the five days he had strengthened himself with the thought that Lenore awaited him at the journey's end; and she had never seemed so lovely to him as when, returning in the gray twilight he saw her standing framed in the lighted doorway of the home cabin.

Doubtless it was his own eagerness that made her seem so slow in coming into his arms; and his own great fire that caused her to seem to lack warmth. He had been boyishly anticipatory, foolishly exultant. Yet it was all sweet enough. The girl fluttered a single instant in his arms, and he felt repaid for everything.

"Let me go," she whispered tensely, when his arms tried to hold her. "Don't let Dooomsdorf see. He might kill you—"

But it came about that she didn't finish the warning. Presently she felt his arms turn to steel. She felt herself thrust back until her eyes looked straight into his.

She had never seen Ned in this mood before. Indeed, she couldn't ever remember experiencing the sensation that swept her now; secretly appalled at him, burnt with his fire, wavering beneath his will. She didn't know he had arms like that. His face, when she tried to meet it, hardly seemed his own. The flesh was like gray iron, the eyes cold as stone.

"What was Dooomsdorf to do with it?" he demanded. "Has he any claim on you?"

"Of course not," she hastened to reply. "He's treated me as well as could be expected. But you know—he makes claims on us all."

The fact could not be denied. Ned turned from her, nestling to the fire for warmth.

The happiness he had expected in this long-awaited night had failed to materialize. He ate his great meal, sat awhile in sporadic conversation with the girl in the snug cabin; then went wearily to his blankets.

Often, in the little hour after supper about the stove, he awakened from his reverie to find that he had been thinking about Bess. She had come in from her line the previous day and had gone out again, and he had not dreamed that her absence could leave such a gap in their little circle. He had hardly regarded her at all, yet he found himself missing her. She was always so high-spirited, encouraging him with her own high heart.

But his blankets gave him slumber, and he rose in the early hours, breakfasted, and started out on his lonely trap line. He was not a little excited as to the results of this morning's tramp. Every skin he took was his, to protect his own body from the bitter, impending cold.

The first few traps had not been sprung. Outwitting the wild creatures was seemingly not the easy things he had anticipated.

For a moment he couldn't locate the beaver trap. Then he saw that the wire, fastened securely to the bank, had become mysteriously taut. Not daring to hope he began to tug it in.

At the end of the wire he found his trap, and in the trap was a large beaver, drowned and in prime condition.

Some way little Marquis, I have so many things I want to get clear in my mind, so many things I must tell to someone that I seem to be writing you letters all the time lately.

Ever since that night at the restaurant, Jack has been so queer. He has been alternately in the highest of spirits and down in the depths. Junior has been quite ill, poor little tad, and between him, my housework and trying to keep Jack from exploding, I haven't even had time to go and have my beads restrung.

Since that night Jack has not mentioned them. I took them out of my jewel case today, and, oh, how beautiful they are. I have never seen any as lovely. They are perfectly matched and so milky white. I played they were real and had once belonged to you.

I called up the manager of the restaurant and asked him if the other one had been found. He said it had not, and so I guess I shall be one pearl head short all my life. Perhaps when I take them down to the jeweler he may be able to match them.

The next day after we dined at the restaurant, Ruth came over to see

"Are you sure? I heard him telephoning Jack yesterday and I heard him say, 'Well, unless you want to be sold out, old man, you will have to come across with more margin'."

I don't understand that, for Jack really has no money to spend whatever. He told me he spent his last commission before he got it. I hope he is not gambling in stocks. In the first place, he has no money to do it with, and in the second, if his firm should find it out they would discharge him immediately.

MARQUARD SETS PITTSBURGH BACK IN NATIONAL RACE

Thoughts of Past Worlds Series Games—What They Mean To Players In Money

As A Matter of Fact

BY HARRY BRADBURY
Sports Editor.

There are no figures available giving the exact attendance at ball games in any of the leagues, but a conservative estimate of all clubs in all leagues at 40,000,000 to 50,000,000, and the receipts for these games at $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 would be equitable, but this does not include College games, trolley leagues and Sunday games in the smaller towns, which will amount to a few millions more in attendance and a good many thousands of dollars taken at the gate. Spalding is his "American National Game" estimated that there was a total attendance in 1910 of 26,000,000 at the different league parks, and a conservative estimate, according to the increased population of the different league cities would carry the total beyond this estimate.

Ball games have drawn more people per capita than the increase in population would indicate. At the beginning of the present season the attendance has been beyond the most sanguine and conservative prophecies, and has never been equalled at the beginning of any previous season.

We can, however, figure accurately on the number of people passing the turnstiles and the amount of money taken in at world's series games. These are interesting to note, and what they mean to individual players in dollars and cents.

BACK TO THE OLD NATIONAL

Going back to the days of the old National league and the American association, when St. Louis had her champions, the post-series games did not attract the attention they do now. These games first began in 1881; in that year as well as the two preceding years there seemed to have been no money value to them. They seemed to have been played for just glory so far as the players were concerned, and commercialism did not figure so strongly as it does now. In 1887, however, they began to think of a little pecuniary flavor and when Detroit grabbed off the National league gamelan and St. Louis smothered the other teams of the American association, they arranged a fifteen game post-season series. Detroit won ten of them and the total receipts for the fifteen games was about $12,000. Hardly worth while bothering with these days. It is not certain how much each player shared, but it is quite certain that it was a pittance compared to the rakeoff of today.

That feverish enthusiasm was lacking in those days. Men didn't wait in long lines all night to get to the box office, and from this small sum of $12,000 the receipts for the next season fell to $24,362.10, this was for the games between the Giants and the St. Louis champs, but the next season, 1889, was even worse and the receipts fell to $23,623.

LITTLE ENTHUSIASM IN WORLD'S SERIES

There does not seem to have been any attention paid to the gross receipts for the years 1890 and 1892—there was no series in 1891 and 1893—but in 1894 the gross receipts divided to a total of $18,000 and still worse in 1895, the total amount being only $14,750. The magnates became worried when these figures were considered and believing that something had to be done they inaugurated the Temple cup. There are no figures for those games, the receipts must have been too small to mention. So far as world's series business was concerned it went from bad to worse until the organization of the American league in 1900. Even then magnates were skeptical of results and for three years after the American league began there was no post-series played.

Popular demand called for these games and they began in earnest in 1903. From the very beginning the receipts were very gratifying. The total amount for the Pittsburgh-Boston games amounted to $50,000 and each Pittsburgh player received $1,316.27 more money than the champion Boston players got because of the generosity of President Daytuss who donated his share to them. The Boston team took down for winning the championship $1,182 each.

In 1904 the Giants won the National league pennant and Boston for the second consecutive time won the American league pennant. Why New York backed down and wouldn't play a post season series was never satisfactorily explained and there was no world's champions that year.

100,000 SAW BOSTON-PITTSBURGH

There were 100,000 people saw the series between Boston and Pittsburgh, and the Giants and Athletics drew less in point of numbers but played to considerably more money, the receipts amounting to $68,435. The players share for the four games they played was $27,434.88. New York won the series and each player got $1,142 while each Athletics player got $383.

In preceding seasons figures began to rise and exploded like popcorn. In 1905 the series between

AND EACH YEAR INCREASES

Each succeeding year receipts increase until 1922 the total attendance between the two New York teams was 269,977, and the official gross receipts was $900,133, which gave each member of the Giants $5,263 and the losing Yanks each got $3,510.

My Own; Zev Likely To Run Match Race

NEW YORK — Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson's Myown, and Zev from the Rancho de Stables are likely to meet in a $50,000 race on the Laurel track in Maryland October 12 to decide which shall have the honor of racing Papyrus, English Derby winner in the International event for three year olds at Belmont Park on October 20. All that is necessary to clinch the race was permission from Harry E. Sinclair, owner of Zev, who will arrive today from Chicago.

Rear Admiral Grayson already has stated he would be glad to put Myown into the race. Lou Cassidy, representative of the Laurel track and the $50,000 offer was made by the Maryland State Fair Association.

JOHNSON THE GREAT

Walter Johnson is among the greatest pitchers of all time. In 1912 he pitched 13 shutouts in 14 victories for Washington. He holds the record for the most consecutive shutouts in the history of the game, 11, for the most consecutive pitching Sept. 4, 7, 1908, most consecutive shutouts in the history of the game, 11, from April 19 to May 3, 1917. Monday he pitched two consecutive games against St. Louis and won them both and in doing so he pitched 16 consecutive innings. Quite some record when it is considered that he has been pitching major league ball with Washington since 1907.

Pirates Lose Crucial Game To Boston

BY HARRY BRADBURY
Sports Editor.

The Bostonians set the fast going Pirates back Monday by a score of 6-1. "Rube" Marquard was the particular reason. Those devotees of the national pastime, who have contended that it is the old heads and not the young fellows, that are the brains and foundation of the major league calibre of ball have a strong argument on their side so far as Marquard is concerned. Back in 1911 one John McGraw, Czar of base ball, hired this young fellow. If memory serves right he paid something like $11,000 for him, for he was burdened down with promises. This same young fellow turned out such a marvelous pitcher, that with a single exception (Tim Lincecum, back in 1885) pitched the longest string of victories that modern baseball knows. From April 11 to July 2, he piled up nineteen straight wins.

There is a precedent in base ball, just like the precedent with an old horse they sell players, when they begin to fail, because they are called excess baggage; the horse will generally be found drawing a sloop wagon, the old pitcher going back to the tail sticks. But in Marquard's case, after McGraw thought he had reached the limit of his usefulness, turned him loose, to Brooklyn; he had forgotten the player and what he had done. Chief Robby, of Brooklyn, thought there was a few more games left in his good arm, and he was right. Marquard pitched winning ball for Brooklyn. But he grew older, he had already pitched the allotted span of the averaged athlete, so he let him go, he went to St. Louis, and it is believed that because of his temperamental disposition, did not fill the bill; then Christy Mathewson, wonderful pitcher, also of New York once upon a time, knew Marquard, knew pitchers and welcomed him into the fold.

It was a cruel blow to the Pirates, especially when they are striving so hard for games, straining every point to catch the Giants in the National league race. And here the irony of fate crops out, in beating Pittsburgh he helps McGraw who had cast him out, towards the goal he is striving to gain.

The Giants easily won their games against the Cubs. The big first baseman Kelly rubbed the wist home on his bat and pounded three home runs out, murderous assault. They won from the Cubs 13-6.

Reds had a holiday and Tuesday afternoon play two games with Philadelphia. The team still has thirteen games to play—four with the Quakers; three with Brooklyn and two each with the Giants, Cardinals and Pirates. Hard rowing. What will result is problematical. Strange things happen in base ball.

CLEVELAND BEATS YANKS

Cleveland Indians easily won from the Yanks Monday 6-2; too late to do any good, only delayed Higgins' team from the single victory they need to clinch the pennant in the American league for the season of 1923.

$15,000 Stake On Columbus Card

COLUMBUS — With purses totalling $15,000, trotting events predominate today's Grand Circuit racing program at the Columbus Driving Park. Three trotting events and a class pace are scheduled.

The Horse Futurity for three year old trotters with a purse of $1,000 with eight entries is the feature of the program. Eight horses are declared for the M & M stake for 2 1/4 trotters with a purse of $5,000. The Capital City stake for 2 1/4 trotters purse $3,000 and the pot pace, purse $1,000 complete the program.

NEW YORK — George Kelly, the Giant first baseman, drove out three homers in succession, a two bagger and a single in five times.

Over The Links

The elimination series to qualify for the silver cup will be played between Sept. 29 and Oct. 3 for the lowest 16 scores. It is the first cup of the year and there are quite a few in it. The other cup match will be between S. M. Dean and P. A. Shook.

Jacob Sanes and Henry Nibholz played a match over the Lake Shore Country club links at St. Marys Saturday afternoon. There was quite a large gallery present. The score was Sanes 43, Nibholz 40. Sanes played a very good game. These two local players will play over the Piqua Golf club links next Sunday, panned against Robert Mail, pro., and Darrell McLaughlin, of St. Marys. Nibholz is loud in his praise of the St. Marys links.

In this coming match at Piqua there is considerable speculation for the reason that both Sanes and Mail are port-siders, which makes them rather rare birds for the links especially when it is to be considered that they are some pumpkins, when it comes to playing the game as "he" should be played.

Kings At Golf Compete In Tourney

CHICAGO — (Associated Press)

Thirty-two of the leading golfers of America, including seven former holders of the title, teed off Tuesday in the first 36 hole match round of the national amateur golf championship at Flossmoor as a result of their ability to survive two qualifying rounds of 18 holes in which Bobby Jones of Atlanta, national open champion and Chick Evans of Chicago, tied for low score 149.

Both Jones and Evans cannot reach the finals as they are in the same half of the draw.

Jones played T. B. Cochran of Wichita Falls, Texas, while Evans met Willie Hunter of Los Angeles, former British amateur champion. In the lower bracket with Jones and Evans, Francis Quimet, formerly national open and amateur champion, played Anthony Hames, of Rockford, Ill., who several years ago was a Yale athlete.

Another interesting match in this half was between George Von Elm of Salt Lake City, former trans-Mississippi champion and Captain E. F. Carter of Chicago, formerly Irish champion.

In the upper bracket, Jess Sweetser of New York, defending champion, played Albert Seckel of Chicago, formerly intercollegiate champion, while Dave Herron of Chicago, title holder three years ago, met Russell Martin, a young Flossmoor player.

Jess Guilford, the "siege gun of Boston" who won the crown at St. Louis two years ago, played with Louis Jacoby of Dallas, Texas. Dexter Cummings, of Chicago, intercollegiate champion while playing for Yale, fought it out with Harold Weber, a veteran tournament player of Toledo.

St. Louis defeated the Phillies, 6 to 5, making it four out of five for the series.

ST. LOUIS DEFEATED THE PHILLIES, 6 TO 5, MAKING IT FOUR OUT OF FIVE FOR THE SERIES.

GOVERNS MOODS

(By GERTRUDE GILLMAN)
BABY PEGGY MONTGOMERY, may movie prodigy, by contract with Sol Lesser, screen magnate, has been guaranteed income probably exceeding $1,000,000 during the next three years.

Her earning capacity at five is thus rated higher than any other baby in history, not even excepting Jackie Coogan, who was just getting started at the same age.

What qualities establish her on that financial pinnacle? How can a cherub so scarcely known her ABC's command such a fortune annually?

In the first place she is a seasoned little trouper. Half her brief lifetime has been spent in pictures. Her mental development is almost three times per year. These facts coupled with an effish winsomeness, a demonstrated entertainment value and the magic reward for talent in the films, make her the super Cinderella of all time.

BABY PEGGY

She is a feminine little sprig, grave, deliberate, dainty, with amazing poise, and with a rich emotional nature under perfect control of a mind which even at two and one-half years was rated at the 10-year level by University of Southern California psychologists.

It was this abnormal ability to govern her moods, at the slightest suggestion of parents or picture directors, that got her into movies as a mere toddler. Most children enter pictures because of their ability to shed tears gracefully, at command, disapproving so far as film audiences and their lavish pay is concerned the statement that if you weep you weep alone.

Baby Peggy could not only weep convincingly, but she could instantly transform to smiles and capers. That is to say, she could take direction perfectly, with astonishing facility in pantomime.

This in the past three years, in 40 pictures for Century and two for Universal, she laid the foundation for what Sol Lesser, hopes will be more than several million dollars worth of tears and laughs in the coming three.

Genealogically there is no hint of artistic impulse, ancestors on both sides having been commercial. And Louise, quite as talented as her famous sister, has been kept from movies because lack of emotional control played havoc with her sensitive nature.

Baby Peggy weighed less at five months than she did at birth and was not expected to live. Her parents carted her off to the mountains, where the father patrolled forests, and she quickly gained normal health. Because of her precocious understanding of her work as make-believe, there has been no strain on childish nerves. Psychologists, while proclaiming her distinctly of the genius type, say she is remarkably balanced in development. She works from three to four hours a day in pictures, and intervals between films are considered very beresome.

Her parents carted her off to the mountains, where the father patrolled forests, and she quickly gained normal health. Psychologists, while proclaiming her distinctly of the genius type, say she is remarkably balanced in development. She works from three to four hours a day in pictures, and intervals between films are considered very beresome.

Her affectionate term for her daddy is "Old Top," and his for her is "Shrimp." In her family association there is no trace of that pert, saucy quality which so many of her pictures have displayed. That is sheer acting to order—acting of a kind which, her intimates believe, hasn't yet scratched the surface of her capabilities.

"Daughters of the Rich" Coming to Sigma

One of the most lavishly staged productions of the season will be shown at the Sigma theatre next week in "Daughters of the Rich," a picture of unusual beauty, gorgeous costuming and thrilling action.

B. A. Schulberg has chosen an unusually fine cast for "Daughters of the Rich." Gaston Glass, who scored such a personal success in "The Hero," is cast in still more sympathetic role in this picture. The youthful Glass, since he made his first big success in "Humoresque," has come to the fore rapidly, attracting as many theatregoers as stars who have made long careers on the screen. Others in the cast are Ruth Clifford, Miriam Cooper, Stuart Holmes, Ethel Shannon and Vola Vale.

The Real "Sally, Irene and Mary"

FOR the benefit of those who are skeptical, the following clippings from the Chicago Post, of Saturday, Sept. 15, should be convincing, so far as "Sally, Irene and Mary," being the same identical production, which is making a couple of stops between New York and Chicago is concerned:

"SALLY, IRENE AND MARY"—A musical play of this title will open the season at the Great Northern theatre next Saturday night, September 15. The production has been running in New York for almost a year. As the title indicates the libretto is concerned with three heroines of popular musical comedies of the last few seasons—the Cinderella girls who rose from rags to riches by the song-and-dance route.

With this famous musical romance of three modern Cinderellas comes to the Faurot Opera House Wednesday night, after a year's run in New York, the Messrs. Schubert will present the following talented Broadway favorites in the title roles:

"Sally"—played (and danced) by Burtress Dietch, who created such a sensation as premier dancer in "Blossom Time" during its two years at the Ambassador Theatre. Prior to that she appeared in "Cinderella on Broadway" and "The Passing Show of 1919," both Winter Garden revues. She is a pupil of M. Kobloff, who has trained many of our foremost dancers. Her dance of the ballet in this latest production is performed with an ensemble of 16 youthful Pavlovas.

"Irene"—played by Kathryn Mulqueen, the winsome Irish ingenue who followed Edith Day in the original "Irene" during the heyday of its success. Last season she appeared with Jack Donahue in "Molly Darling." Her first Broadway engagement was "Leave It to Jane," in which she scored an overnight hit staging Jerome Kern's "Cricket Song." She was born in Philadelphia, studied in Cleveland, likes to travel, and spends her summers in the Canadian Rockies.

"Mary"—played by Jane Taylor who delighted New York in the title role in "The Rose Girl," and also in the name part in George M. Cohan's "The O'Brien Girl." Last season she appeared opposite Eddie Dowling in "Sally, Irene, and Mary," at the Century Theatre. She has blue eyes, long dark curls, and a win-ing personality. Considers musical comedy stepping stone to light opera, and is studying with that goal in mind.

Jane Taylor in "Sally, Irene and Mary," at the Faurot Wednesday.

Mrs. May Turpin Asks Lima Police to Probe Death

Theory of murder entered Tuesday in the mysterious death of William Rufus Betts, former Lima resident at Jeffersonville, near Washington, C. H., on Friday, Sept. 7.

Mrs. May Turpin, 345 S. Union-st., daughter, Tuesday asked Lima police to search for a mysterious woman said to be Mrs. Rufus Betts, who may know something of the death.

According to Mrs. Turpin, her father was found on the Jeffersonville road with his face crushed and a large bump on the back of his head. He was buried in Jeffersonville cemetery after a verdict of death by heart disease had been rendered.

At the funeral, Mrs. Turpin said she discovered her father's forehead had been crushed above the right eye and that the back of his head was fractured.

The body of Betts was found by a man named Cramer, according to Mrs. Turpin, who said her father's body had not been taken. A small amount of silver money was found on the body.

Theory that her father was attacked and killed by highwaymen active in that vicinity was expressed by Mrs. Turpin, who believes the mysterious woman posing as the widow of her father may know something of the death.

The mysterious woman was at the funeral of Betts. After the funeral she disappeared before being questioned, according to Mrs. Turpin.

clouds of smoke which swept over the brow of the hill, driven by a brisk wind and blanketed Berkeley throughout the day.

The fire was one of a series of forest, brush and grass fires, fanned by strong north winds and fed by undergrowth baked to a tinder by the prolonged summer, which raged in nearly every county in northern California yesterday.

Several resorts and small towns were severely damaged or destroyed by the flames, which sprang into being in several instances almost without warning and quickly spread beyond the control of national foresters, state fire wardens and hundreds of volunteer fire fighters.

TOWN DESTROYED
Eldorado, a small mining town in Eldorado-co., was virtually destroyed and 150 persons residing there were forced to flee. The inhabitants of Colfax, in Placer-co., also prepared to flee when their town was threatened.

A fire in Sonoma valley destroyed the Boyes Springs hotel and swept on towards Fetters Springs and Elverano.

In the southern part of the state, Forest Supervisor Chester Jordan called for reinforcements for the fire fighters in the Santa Ynez river district in the Santa Barbara National Forest. It was said that the situation there was the most serious since the fire started on September 1. More fire fighters were sent from Los Angeles.

Woodacre, a picturesque little village ten miles from San Rafael, was reported almost destroyed by a forest fire which swept thru Lucas valley.

One hundred sailors and marines were sent from Mare Island yard to fight a forest fire that was threatening the little town of Cordelia, 20 miles from the navy yard.

The various fires have burned over thousands of acres of grazing and timberlands and hundreds of men are participating in the fight against the flames.

The Berryman Reservoir district of Berkeley was completely wiped out and the flames progressed down the slope toward San Francisco bay and north toward the University of California.

As the flames progressed and it became certain that vast destruction would result, all available fire fighting apparatus in Berkeley, Oakland and nearby cities was mobilized and hurried to the scene of the conflagration.

The utmost confusion reigned in the fire zone and in the district for blocks surrounding that laid waste by the flames.

Many householders stuck to their posts with garden hose or buckets, striving mainly to halt the fire's attack on their homes, until they were driven away by the encroaching flames.

Many fraternity and sorority houses of the University of California were destroyed as were homes of several instructors, although the institution's structures themselves were not harmed. Hundreds of university men engaged in the fight to check the flames.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT STAND

Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick I was not able to stand on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimonials about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four, all my washing and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. I truly feel that were it not for your medicine I would not be here today as my case seemed very serious." —Mrs. GEORGE W. BURCHILL, Glens Falls, N. Y.
